##2. Generate Ideas for Content Marketing Campaigns Your goal is to generate ideas for content marketing campaigns that can grow your blog's audience and engagement. Write something like "This blog post will teach you how to write an introduction for your blog post" or "Introducing 'How To Overcome Writer's Block!'" or "Five Ways to Stay Motivated in Writing". It should be about one sentence that suggests a title, topic, or angle related to writing. My post about writing is called "How To Write A Blog Post" My post about writing is called "Five Tips on How To Stay Motivated While Writing On Daily Blogging Prompts"

##3. Create an Automated Email Series to Increase Your Email Newsletter Subscribers Daily by 5-20% (need translation) This daily email series will send out a personal invitation to all your subscribers for you or them to take action on the next step in their journey. The content of this email should be targeted towards one, specific segment of your audience (e.g., 1st time visitors, subscribers who haven't taken action, etc). The email should include "trigger words" or topics that will let them know that it is time to take action. My post introducing my blog is called "How To Create A Website That Gets Visited Daily" My blog post about writing is called "How To Overcome Writer's Block" My post about writing is called "5 Tips for Motivating Yourself as a Daily Blogger"

##4. Write a Compelling Case Study Compelling case studies aren't all the same, and it's important to be creative. You can either write one on your blog or on some other online platform (e.g., LinkedIn, Google+, Twitter, Pinterest etc.). The facts should be relevant and should make a good story to read. Include a call to action in the end of the post, and include links that will lead your audience to take some next steps. Your post should be no longer than 1,000 words. My post about writing is called "How I'm Writing Daily on Prompts from Daily Blogging"

##5. Write a Compelling Story Compelling stories are engaging and will generate leads for your business. It could be about how you overcame an obstacle related to your business/blog or how you struggled with something before and came out as a winner at the end. It could be about how you experienced something that others can learn from. My post about writing is called "Why I'm Writing Daily on Prompts from Daily Blogging"

##6. Create a Compelling Infographic (need translation) Infographics are powerful as they generate leads and build trust with your audience. They don't have to be overly complicated, and you can use images and text to tell a story.
